PgMP Exam Sample Question:

Program Alpha has been terminated. Two ongoing projects under Program Alpha are critical because their expected benefits are required by Program Beta. Senior management decides to transfer these two projects into Program Beta so they can be completed.

The projects are already 50% and 70% complete. However, they currently follow different reporting approaches, standards, and tools than those used in Program Beta.

As the Program Manager of Program Beta, you must decide how to proceed in order to achieve optimal program performance and benefit realization.

What is the best action for the Program Manager of Program Beta?

- A. Train the existing project managers and teams to adopt Program Beta's standards and implement changes so the transferred projects operate like the other projects in the program.
- B. Replace the current project managers with experienced project managers from Program Beta to quickly enforce compliance with program standards.
- C. Allow the transferred projects to continue using their original standards and tools to avoid disruption and delays.
- D. Evaluate the value of standardization versus flexibility, determine the optimal approach, and present a recommendation to the Program Steering Committee.
